Dedication

Paul Samuel Pegram, Jr., M.D.

Dr. Pegram was born on November 14, 1943 in Greensboro, North Carolina. From 1962-66, he attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he completed his Bachelor of Arts degree in Chemistry with honors and was elected as a member of Phi Beta Kappa. After graduation, he entered medical school at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. Upon graduation in 1970, he had received several honors including membership in Alpha Omega Alpha, the Upjohn Achievement Award and the annual Obstetrics and Gynecology Award. He then spent a year abroad as a Frank Loeber Fellow at the University of London. In 1970, he returned to North Carolina and completed his postdoctoral training in Internal Medicine and Infectious Diseases at the North Carolina Baptist Hospital, where he also served as Chief Medical Resident. He then spent three years in the United States Medical Corps and subsequently returned to Bowman Gray as an Assistant Professor of Medicine, Section of Infectious Diseases and Immunology, and now serves as an Associate Professor since 1983. Dr. Pegram has served both the medical and Winston-Salem communities in several facets, including Director of the Infectious Diseases Subspecialty Clinic Medical School Admissions Committee, Committee of Planned Parenthood of the Triad, AIDS Task Force and numerous other hospital committees. His commitment to excellence in teaching, in community service, but moreover his enthusiasm demonstrated in accomplishing these tasks has served as an impeccable role model for many, many medical students. His sincere involvement with the Class of 1988 throughout their four years of training at Bowman Gray, in Physical Diagnosis, third year wards, etc., has resulted in their desire to dedicate the 1988 Gray Matter in his honor.

Growing Into a New Tradition

FRESHMAN YEAR — Groundbreaking began in August of 1984, both for the entering Class of 1988 and for North Carolina Baptist Hospital. The future held promise and challenge for the 110 anxious eager students, full of anticipation about what lay ahead. So too did the future appear bright for the medical center as plans were finalized for new growth and development. For Freshman students, it was a year of very hard work, but we all rallied and met the challenge of the long hours, endless tests, anatomy labs, and sleepless nights. The class grew into a family, friendships solidified over a shared cadaver, a microscope, a helping hand. It was an important year for North Carolina Baptist Hospital and the Bowman Gray School of Medicine as ground was cleared and construction sites were readied. It was an important year for both the hospital and the Class of 1988, for it was a year busily devoted to the laying of foundations.

SOPHOMORE YEAR — Our sophomore year was off to a quick start. We tested the foundation laid the previous year with two days of exams which we were sure we had all failed. But the foundation proved firm and allowed for more building and continued growth. As we sat in class straining to hear above the jackhammers and cranes, we added structure to our knowledge and learned the new ways to think about material learned the year before. The structure of Bowman Gray grew as well when the new parking deck was added and the new floors were built to house research labs. The building expanded in height and continued to grow as we laughed and giggled over our first physical exams of fellow students. Was it really a harsh machinery murmur of a patent ductus arteriosus that I heard on my physical diagnosis partner, or was it just a drill from a construction worker one floor above? We grew tired of endless hours in the classroom, but the structure was indeed intact as our skills grew and the framework was placed in preparation for the coming clinical years.

JUNIOR YEAR -- At last the time had come for us to finally experience that for which we had entered medical school. The foundation was firm, the structural framework was solid after weeks of preparation and successful completion of our National Board Exams. The planning was over, the months of preparation had ended. We began our clinical rotations nervously, afraid to move in the O.R. for fear of being admonished "Your contaminated!" anxious about the dreadful first day on Pediatric Ward rounds when the time came to present your first patient, becoming tongue-tied when asked on Medicine rounds to give the differential diagnosis of chest pain. It was a year of personal and professional growth.

As we look forward to the completion of our new facility, we will be forever grateful to the many individuals and organizations who were instrumental in making this dream a reality. We thank all those who have contributed to the success of the campaign, and we thank those who have chosen to support the hospital through the Hospital Foundation. We are grateful for the support of the community, which has shown its commitment to the hospital through their contributions. It was a privilege to work with such dedicated individuals for our future hospital. We are grateful for the support of the Hospital Foundation, and we are looking forward to the growth.

THE HOSPITAL — June 20, 1974 — On June 20, 1974, and I was asked whether I thought it would be a good idea to hand the manuscript over to the reporter for an interview. I had decided not to do so, but I did agree to do so that would help the reporter understand what I was trying to say. I wanted to point out that I am preparing to go to court to decide that night because I was charged with developing a plan of influence at the hospital. I submitted to the court yes, we were going to do so, and I believe it was true. We also received the tremendous media attention on the front page of the newspaper. By whom? I don't know. But from my humble beginning as a small hospital that opened May 26, 1972, to the growth of the Medical Center has been a long time. It has been referred to as the "Miracle on Broadway." Like the "Miracle" that had occurred four years ago, the hospital had grown and matured into an institution that we were all proud to be a part of. From the first foundation created by our predecessors and furnished by our clinic members, we now hold our own with a period of our own accomplishment and leadership. At the completion of the project, indeed, we all looked forward to our ribbon cutting ceremony.

In Memoriam

Lucile West Hutaaff
1912-1987

Bowman Gray School of Medicine's first woman professor, Dr. Lucile West Hutaaff, died at home in Fayetteville, North Carolina on July 12, 1987. She was 75.

Dr. Hutaaff earned a bachelor of science degree at the University of Wisconsin (1934) and received her medical degree from the University of Rochester (N.Y.) School of Medicine in 1940.

She joined the faculty of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine in 1945. She became an associate professor of preventive medicine in 1956, full professor of preventive medicine in 1964, and professor emeritus upon her retirement in 1972. For fifteen years before her retirement she did research on the treatment of blood coagulation disorders, specializing in hemophilia. Additionally she directed the student health services for 21 years.

Dr. Hutaaff served Bowman Gray well as a dedicated teacher and physician. She was one of the early advocates of integrating the behavioral sciences into the medical curriculum.

Bowman Gray Sports a New Look

The growth of the medical center facilities in 1987-88 certainly paved the road toward establishing new tradition. We all observed the expansion growing daily — through the penthouse windows patients rooms, walking up Hawthorne Hill, or driving on I-40 east — this expansion including the tripling in size of research space in the Hanes building, the second patient tower with new operating room suites and the Brenner Children's Hospital, the Magnetic Resonance Imaging building, the staff parking deck expansion, and the outpatient clinic building.

Not only did our facilities change to make new tradition, but so did significant milestones in our senior year. Students postponed interviewing for residency positions until December and January and even early February, secondary to the later deadline for match 1st preferringing February 16. Then all had to become familiar with the IBM personal computer on which each of us personally typed in our preferences in the Office of Student Affairs which produced an instant copy of our choices. We then had to anxiously cope with the delay of the actual Match Day, now the fourth Wednesday in March. This new tradition prompted another with respect to the future editions of the Gray Matter. House Officer appointments now will be included in a special supplemental publication distributed in May or June.

All in all, it was a special experience for the Class of 1988 to be a part of the new look sported by the Bowman Gray School of Medicine and North Carolina Baptist Hospital, but more so to exert their impact on the making of its new tradition.

Acknowledgments

We would like to express our thanks to the following people for their much appreciated assistance:

Mrs. Barbara Page, for providing innovative artwork for the divider pages,

Madeline Perez, for all of her dedication and hard work spent on two editions of the Gray Matter (we certainly will miss you),

Gerri Peavey, for administering the Faculty Awards process in an expedient manner. Too, for her sincere concern and help provided to the Class of 1988 throughout their four years at Bowman Gary.

Robert Kramer, for his graphics expertise and assistance in allowing a "clutch" deadline to be met,

The Bowman Gray Audiovisual Department, especially Jack Dent, who provided photos expeditiously at the most critical moments,

Allison Huff and Arlene Kerr, the Office of Information and Publications, for providing the sequential construction photos,

Virginia Underhill, for providing the biographical information on Dr. Pogram,

Hunter Publishing, most notably JoAnn Thomas, whose patience and flexibility enabled us to produce an innovative annual.
